

CCDA Spring Conference

Friday, April 22nd, 2022

1:00 - 4:30 PM EST on Zoom

1:15-2:45 PM

Workshop #1:

Narrative Constructive Career Counseling: Positionality, Perspectives and Processes

Presenter: Pamela E. Brott, Ph.D., NCC, ACS

A narrative constructive framework in career counseling positions the client as the author of a subjective meaning-making story. This session will include an overview of the influential narrative perspectives in career counseling with a focus on the storied approach (Brott, 2001). The dynamic processes for co-constructing, de-constructing, re-constructing, and constructing will be highlighted by envisioning career as various life roles. An experiential component will engage participants with techniques and innovative ways to blend qualitative and standardized assessments into the counseling process. Please bring 5 pieces of paper and colored pencils or crayons with you to this session.

3:00-4:30 p.m. Workshop # 2: Engaging in the Practice of Ethical Behavior

Presenter: Carolyn D. Jones, M.Ed., CMCS; President Elect-Elect of the National Career Development Association (NCDA)

The practical application of ethical behavior as career development practitioners is critical to understanding engagement in our lives, our communities and the world in which we live and work. As described in the NCDA Code of Ethics, "A code of ethics helps to define professional behavior and serves to protect the public, the profession and those who practice within the profession." This presentation will focus on a problem-solving framework, Ethical Foundations, Professional Values and Principles, and exploring ethical dilemmas.
